

International Conference

GANG-INDUCED MIGRATION?
Challenges and Perspectives from Social Science and International Law

The SYLFF Mikrokolleg on Forced Migration at Ruhr University Bochum invites you to the conference 'Gang-Induced Migration: Challenges and Perspectives from Social Science and International Law'.

Ruhr-University Bochum, Veranstaltungszentrum, Saal 3
November 17-18, 2022 (9 AM - 5 PM)

The conference will bring together academics and practitioners from both the perspective of Social Science and International Law for an interdisciplinary discussion on 'gang-induced migration'. In this context, the conference will revisit the changing organizational nature of gangs, the traditional perceptions of 'gangs' in society and church, and the multifaceted relationship between gangs and migratory movements.

To attend the conference (online or in person), to present therein or to apply for a travel grant as a speaker or member of the UNIC Network, please use this registration form.

The deadline for registration of presentation requests is October 16, 2022, whereas registration for participants is open on a rolling basis. Kindly note that space is limited, and that registration is required.

For questions, please refer to: ganginducedmigration@rub.de